

Once upon a time, there was a young boy with a good heart who was

The young boy now lives with

Like all children, he had some wonderful things and some confusing things in his life.

A wonderful thing was that he was born

A confusing thing was

The little boy felt

If this boy could have put his feelings into thoughts with words, he might have said

The truth is

A wonderful thing that happened was

Another confusing thing that happened was

The little boy

If the little boy could have put his feelings into thoughts with words, he might have said

The truth is

Then some other wonderful things happened.

Today, the young boy still struggles with believing

But, he has a family who loves him and they continue to help him understand things.

As the young boy grows, he is gradually learning.
